Academic Project

Project name: Securing ATM Transactions using Face recognition

Description:

Pursued an application based project on Securing ATM Transactions. The project is developed in Python, which can overcome the issue of impersonation of a card-holder. It limits the card usage of the unauthorized users who hold password of someones card. Thus, this ATM model provides security against exploitations of identity, by using a verification system using face recognition to identify and confirm the user and it will scale back forced transactions to an excellent extent.
